THE ORIGIN AND HISTORY OF OUR NAMES

A man's most treasured possession, his most valued asset, is his name, Every man is at heart an ancestor worshipper; no man need be ashamed of a proper and wholesome family pride. All the races of mankind,from the most primitive tribes to the most sophisticated, have preserved by some means the descent of their great families, their chiefs and commoners. The sacred scriptures contain a great many genealogies, passed down by word of mouth in poem, song and chant for many generations before they were committed to writing. The family is the cornerstone of our civilization, vital to our racial, national and personal security.

For most of us it is not possible to trace with accuracy before the time when surnames were first adopted. The nomads of the Dark Ages felt no need of surnames nor did their contemporaries in the established communities, the hamlets and manors where all lived under the patronage of their local lord. At first there was but one home, the lord's hall, whose inhabitants bore personal names related to their occupation, or their personal characteristics, or their aspirations in this world and the next. By the time that the whole of Europe was won to Christianity most of the names familiar to us today as Christian names had been chosen.

In those days, when communities were small and men were closely bound by personal allegiance to each other each was identified by a single name only but as the population increased, communication, trade and travel became easier, confusion would arise unless there was some way of identifying particular persons of the same name. Thus surnames began to be used. At first, they were not necessarily fixed, and changed with each generation as if they had been a second Christian name. They were chosen casually, and discarded without a thought. Usually, one of four sources would provide a surname. It might be the name of a parent - William the son of John might be called William Johnson, but his son could be William Williamson. It might be a man's trade or occupation - Fletcher, the arrow-maker, Constable, the custodian of the peace. It might remind a man's neighbours of his birthplace - York, the man from York - or his rseidence - Wood, by the wood; Ford, near the ford. Any of these names might become hereditary and become a true surname. Thus, a family name begins its course through history.

THE ORIGIN OF THE NAME ARNOLD

The family of ARNOLD had its beginning among the Princes of Wales, tracing according to the records in the College of Arms to Ynir, King of Gwentland, 1100, a lineal descendant of Ynir, second son of Cadwalader, King of the Britons. In the twelfth generation a descendant of Ynir, Roger, adopted the surname of ArnOld. From Roger Arnold came William and Thomas Arnold, the American ancestors of the distinguished Arnold family of Rhode Island. The descent of William and Thomas Arnold from Ynir,King of Gwentland, covers sixteen generations, and extends over a period of more than four and a half centuries. In point of honorable antiquity and prominence in English history, the Arnold family ranks among the most important of the kingdom. The American family of the name occupies a place in American life and affairs no less influential than that of the early English house.

I. YNIR, King of Gwentland, married Nesta, daughter of Justin, King of Glamorgan.

II. MEIRIC, King of Gwentland, married Eleanor, of the house of Trevor.

III. YNIR VICHAN, King of Gwentland, married Gladice, daughter of the Lord of Ystradyr.

XI. ARNHOLT (2) Esq., married Sibyl, daughter of Madoc.

XII. ROGER ARNOLD, of Llanthony, in Monmouthshire, England, was the first of the family to adopt a surname. Arnold as a personal is now practically forgotten in English speaking countries. Nevertheless it was widely popular in the thirteenth, fourteenth and fifteenth centuries, at the time when fontal names were being universally adopted as surnames. Arnold, with its many variations and diminutives, became a great favorite. Roger Arnold, in adopting the surname which has served the family to the present day, chose the fontal name of his father and grandfather, namely Arnholt, or Arnold. He married Joan, daughter of Sir Thomas Gamage.

XIII. THOMAS ARNOLD, son of Roger Arnold, and successor to the estates in Monmouthshire, married Agnes, daughter of Sir Richard Warnstead.

He was patron of the churches of Blanford and Bingham Melcombe. His maor house at Bagbere was standing until 1870, when it was demolished. His will was probated July 9, 1595; he desires "to be buried in the Parishe Church of Milton, in the Ile callded Jesus Ile as we go to the tower."

XVI.THOMAS ARNOLD, second son of Richard (2) Arnold is mentioned in his fathers will. He resided for some time at Malcombe Horsey, and removed later to Cheselbourne, locating on one of his father's estates. The family register of Baptisms of his children was preserved and brought to America. He married first Alice, daughter of John Gulley, of North Over, parish of Tolpuddle,near Cheselbourne. Their children were; 1. Thomasine, 2. Joanna, baptised November 30, 1577. 3. Margery, born August 30, 1581. 4. Robert, baptised 1583. 5. John, born 1585. 6. William,mentioned below. Thomas, born April 18, 1599; settled in Watertown, Mass., as early as 1640, and was the founder of the notable Arnold family of that vicinity. 9. Eleanor, baptised July 31, 1606.

THE ARNOLD FAMILY IN AMERICA

William Arnold, immigrant ancestor and founder of the Rhode Island Arnold family, was the son of Thomas Arnold, and the youngest child of his first wife, Alice (Gulley) Arnold, and was born in Leamington, Eng., June 24, 1587. He lived for a time at Cheselbourne, where he was appointed administrator of the estate of his brother, John, Nov. 23, 1616. In 1635 He emigrated with his family to America and located in the town of Hingham, in the Mass. Bay Colony, where he was a proprietor in that year. In 1636 he was associated with Roger Williams in the founding of Providencs, and was one of the 12 who received from him deeds to the lands the latter had bought from Canonicus and Miantonomi. In 1636 he removed to Pawtuxet, and in the same year came in possession of large tracts in Providence and Warwick. He was one of the 12 first members of the Baptist Church. William Arnold was one of the most prominent figures in the early life of the colony until the time of his death, and filled numerous posts of trust and responsibility. He was prominent in the troubles between Massachusetts and Rhode Island over the Gortonists, and for a period of 15 years was one of those who subjected themselves to the government of Massachusetts; he later turned to the jurisdiction of Rhode Island, however. He received deeds at sundry times. One of these indicates that he was living in 1652 near Pawtuxet Falls, on the north side of the river. William Arnold was a represenative of the finest type of immigrant to the American colonies in the 17th cent., coming of a fine stock, highly intelligent and intellectual, refined and cultured, a leader of men. His progeny since the time of the founding of the family in N.E. has been of the same type, and has wielded large influence in American life. He died some time between 1675 and 1677. He married in Eng., Christian Peake,

Stephen Arnold, son of William Arnold, was born in England, Dec. 22, 1622. He was in his 13th year when in 1635 he accompanied his parents to America, residing with them at Providence . He later moved to Pawtuxet, where he had a large estate. He was prominent in public affairs and held important offices in the colony. He bought land from the Indians south of the Pawtuxet River, July 30, 1674. He was a large importer of liquors, bringing in 17 ankers in all between 1660 and 1664. In 1678 he received fifty shillings from the colony for sheep furnished the troops quartered at Pawtuxet. The greater part of his estate was distributed by him in gifts and deeds before his death. He was one of the wealthiest and most prominent of the landed proprietors of the Rhode Island colony.

In 1690 he was a member of a committee to apportion the taxes of the colony among the several towns. In 1703 he protested with others against the expenditure of money for sending agents to England. He married Apr. 16, 1677, Mary, widow of Elisha Smith, daughter of James and Barbara (Dungan) Barker.

William Arnold, son of Israel was born at Warwick, R.I. about 1681. He died in 1759. About 1705 he married Deliverence Whipple, dau. of John Scott.

Caleb Arnold, son of William, was born at Warwick, R.I. about 1725, and died at Pawtucket, Mar. 13, 1799. He married Susanna (Stafford) McGregor, widow of Alexander McGregor. The issue were;-Joseph, William. Patsy and two daughters.

Captain Joseph Arnold, son of Caleb, was born at Cranston, R.I., Aug. 13, 1755. He was a soldier in the Revolution, serving with Capt. Thomas Holden's Company, Colonel James Varnum's Regt., at Bunker Hill, and later came under Gen. Washington's command. In June 1777, he was appointed a 1st Lt. of Capt. Cole's Co.. He was ensign in Col. Christopher Greene's Regt, which marched to Morristown, N.J. serving under General Washington in April of that year; marched to Ft. Montgomery, joined the main army in Penna., marched to Whitestone, going later into winter quarters at Valley Forge. On June 1, 1778 he was appointed Captain; was in Gen. Sullivan's expedition, recruited a company of black troops , which he commanded,and was discharged Nov. 9, 1779. He died at Apponaug, July 20, 1840.

Joseph Franklin (2) Arnold, son of Joseph Franklin (1) Arnold, was born in Apponaug, R.I., June 23, 1821. Early in life after western travel, he settled at New Orleans, Louisiana, then third in Commercial importance among the cities of the Union. He there becam identified with Mississippi river steamboat navigation, and owned the "Eclipse" and the "Natchez," two well known boats on the river. The Civil War swept away the fortune he had been many years in amassing, and drove him a fugitive to the wilderness, but he finally succeeded in reaching his native state. He at once began rebuilding his fortunes by establishing a sale and exchange mart in Providence, which he successfully conducted the remainder of his life. He died in Warwick, R.I., Dec. 21, 1881. He married, at New Orleans, June 14, 1849, Louise Constance, born in Demeroringer, France, Apr. 6, 1831, and died Jan.6, 1917.

Arthur Henry Arnold, son of Joseph Franklin (2) and Louise (Constance) Arnold, was born at New Orleans, Louisiana, Sept. 8, 1855. In 1861 he was brought to Warwick by his parents, who were obliged to flee from the South with the outbreak of the Civil War, and there he attended the public schools. He made further preparation in the select school of Mrs. Graves, the Quakeress, then entered East Greenwich Seminary under the then principal Rev. James T. Edwards. At an early age he became associated with his father in business in Providence, but in 1869, after a tour of western and southern cities, he was prevailed upon to remain in New Orleans, the city of his birth. From 1869 until 1872 he was connected with the New Orleans and St. Louis Steamboat Company. In the same year he came north and entered the employ of the Boston & Providence Railroad Company, advancing through all intermediate grades to that of passenger conductor. In 1880 he was made conductor of the Dedham & Boston Express, and when the new station at Dedham, Massachusetts, was completed, he had the distinction of running the first train out of the new station. With the passing of the road to the Old Colony Railroad Company, Mr. Arnold was transferred to the main line, and was conductor of the Colonial Express on its first trip under the new management. Later he was conductor of a train running between Providence, Rhode Island, and Plymouth, Massachusetts. In 1910 he retired from the railroad, and devoted the remaining three years of his life to the real estate business.

Mr. Arnold possessed musical talent of a high order, and while in the south placed himself under capable instructors and thoroughly trained his fine baritone voice in form, shade, expression and sentiment. Under Signor Brignoli, the Italian composer and opera tenor, he perfected the cultivation of his voice after returning East, and often held positions in concert and choir work. He was strongly urged to go upon the operatic stage professionally, but he could not be induced to do so, although he often appeared as a baritone soloist on concerts, and added greatly to the success of such entertainments.

Genial, affable, and social by nature, he was yet very strict in the performance of duty. He was thoroughly fitted for his work, found it congenial to his tastes, and gave to it the best of his abilities, becoming a favorite with the traveling public, and was highly esteemed by the railroad management. He was a popular member of the Masonic order, belonging to Mt. Vernon Lodge, No. 4, Free and accepted Masons; Providence chapter, No. 1, Royal Arch Masons: Providence Council, No. 1, Royal and Select Masters; St. John's Commandery, No. 1, Knights Templar; Rhode Island Consistory, thirty-second degree, Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite; Palestine Temple, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine. He was a member of the Conductors' Relief of Boston; vice-president of the Conductors' and Engineers' Investment Company; member of the Rhode Island Society, Sons of the American Revolution, through the service of his great-grandfather, Captain Joseph Arnold; member of the Rhode Island Chapter, Society of Colonial Wars, through the service of his ancestor, Stephen Arnold, of the second American generation.

Arthur Henry Arnold died at his handsome residence, No. 572 Elmwood Avenue, Providence, April 24, 1913.

He was thrice married. Issue by first wife: Louise, married James S. Kenyon, of Providence. He married second, Cora Etta Barnes, born November 2, 1869, died July 2, 1906. married (third) March 2, 1908, Caroline Frances Waterman, daughter of John Olney and Susan Johnson (Bosworth) Waterman, of Warren, Rhode Island. This Waterman family was one of the earliest and most famous names in the colonial history of Rhode Island. Few families of the early Colony or of the State have attained to the place of prominence in its affaires which the Watermans have held from the very founding of Providence Plantations. Colonel Richard Waterman, founder of the family in America, was one of the thirteen original proproetors of Providence, and one of the leading figures in its affairs until the time of his death. The Watermans to the present day have relinquished none of the prestige and influence in official and in social life which pleased their ancestors of two hundred and fifty years ago in the foremost rank of English Colonists.

Mrs. Arthur Henry Arnold who was living in 1918, continued her residence in Providence, was active in all good works, was noted for her charity and benevolence, her gracious hospitality and womanly graces. She was a member of the Rhode Island Historical Society; Gaspee Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, through the services of her maternal great-grandfather, Peleg Bosworth; Rhode Island Society of Colonial Governors; Rhode Island Society of Mayflower Descendants, eligible to all these societies through her distinguished maternal and paternal ancestry.

HERALDRY AND THE COAT OF ARMS

It is only within a comparatively few years that Heraldry has commanded attention in the United States. Our forbears, who laid the foundations of our American civilization at Plymouth and Jamestown, brought with them something more than an intense love for that liberty under whose benign influences State and Church came to be in course of time, two separate and entirely independent institutions. They brought with them as intense an abhorrence for whatever was remindful to them of the controlling institutions in their home land which had become irksome to them, and impelled them to find new homes across the seas. Hence, for the far greater number, these immigrants practically sundered all ties that had bound them to the past, and regarded with contempt all that savored of pride of ancestors.

About a centry ago, a new spirit came to the descendants of these founders of a new nation. There came to them a pride in and reverence for their colonist forefathers who laid the foundations of our new nation, and for those who followed after them and gave a new birth to freedom at Bunker Hill and Yorktown. This spirit resurrection was practically synchronal with the beginning of ocean voyaging by steam.

From the earliest historic times, families were identified by some insignia, and among many peoples such was the only identification. American heraldry is for the greater part based upon that of the British Isles, whence came the forbears of the greater part of our people; yet many of our families derive their arms from France, Germany and other countries. Heraldry as we know it today, had its origin on the continent. Arms were well established as far back as the eleventh century, though their real moment of birth is not to be accurately distinguished. Nor was their first use due to desire for pageantry and show, but to serve for identification in battle; later they bore devices commemorating their achievements or the achievements of ancestors whose glories they deemed worthy of some signal recognition. Arms are tokens or resemblances signifying some act or quality of the bearer.

The principle personal or family identification belongs to the Shield, or Escutcheon, rather than the Coat of Arms proper. The latter, in the military trappings of the Middle Ages, held the place of the PALUDAMENTUM of the ancient Roman warrior--a shortsleeved coat or tunic, descending to about the knee. Upon this was painted or embroidered marks by which the wearer could distinguish himself from others, or the enemy in battle. There was a real necessity for the Shield, which, borne upon the arm, could be shifted immediately in front of the body, or to right or left, whence came the missile or blow of the opponent.

The Shield is known in history from the most ancient times, through the Middle Ages, and until the invention of gun powder rendered it useless. The early Shield or Escutcheon of the Middle Ages was circular and convex, with a boss in the center,the body generally of wood, and the rim of metal. This form was that generally borne by the foot soldier. Thus, as the Shield was necessary, and its use honorable, it came to be recognized by all nations as " the most convenient tabula whereon to inscribe marks of valour and honour."

The armorial colors upon the Shield are termed tinctures. They are separated by divisional lines, and the devices inscribed upon them are known as charges. The principal tinctures are metals and colors.

The ARNOLD Coat of Arms is described in heraldic language as--Gules a chevron ermine, between three pheons or.--CREST-A demi leopard reguardant proper bezantee, holding a pheon or, MOTTO-Mihi Gloria Cessum.

Meaning of the above heraldic terms.

GULES- This color representeth fire, which is the chiefest, lightsomest and elegant of the elements, and in blazoning is termed Gules. In its military application it signifies fortitude and magnanimity.
OR,-This color is blazoned by the name of gold. And as this metal exceedeth all others in value and purity and fineness, so ought the bearer, as much as in him lieth, endeavor to surpasss all others in prowess and valor. This also denotes generosity, or elevation of mind.
PHEON,- This is the barbed head of an arrow; engrailed on the inner edges of the barbs. This signifies war and battle.

The principle ornament of the shield is the crest or cognizance, superimposed upon the wreath. Occupying the summit of the helmet, it was more clearly and distantly distinguished than any device upon coat or shield, and hence its heraldic name of cognizance, from the latin cognoso, "to know." Sometimes it was indicative of the office held by the wearer; sometimes it was commemorative of some particular feat of the wearer, or that of an ancestor.

The MOTTO completes the adornments of the Shield. This consists of a word or sentence carried upon a scroll at the bottom of the Shield, and used in allusion to the name or office of its bearer, the deeds of an ancestor, or as expressing some guiding principle or ideal.
